April General Meeting with Terri Meeks

There is no dead end like not knowing a wife's given name or maiden name!

FWGS was fortunate to have Terri Meeks speak to us on Tracing Your Female Ancestors at the April General Meeting. Terri suggested beginning with existing family trees. She also extolled the use of land records, cemetery records & tombstones, family associations, wills, probate and so much more. Even try a Google search for husband's name and possible places they may have lived.

NARA Has Added New Beginners Class in May

A Beginner's Guide to Researching Military Records will be presented by Lawrence Wright, Archives Technician on Saturday, May 17th from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. This is part of their occasional series of Getting Back to Basics topics. It will be held at the Montgomery Street Plaza site. Space is limited so reserve your seat by emailing ftworth.education@nara.gov

From the President

Is Anyone Out There? I did not get any response on my question last month about Research Trips, so I thought, OK, NO ONE IS INTERESTED! Then I remembered a comment by Rob Yoder, Web Master, who said "I don't think people are reading our Newsletter, based on "hits" on our FWGS web site." Several years ago, FWGS was faced with dire economic constraints. One tough decision was to begin emailing the newsletter to save money in order to keep our Journal, Footprints in print and mailed. This way, we can email our newsletter to more than just our membership.

So, I am going to conduct a TEST. Please email me THE MINUTE you read this column & Newsletter. Just say I READ IT! And you might go back and look at the March newsletter on my question about the TRE trip to Dallas. My email is debeejay@aol.com, so let me hear from you. We welcome your input. Debbie Pearson

Anthropodermic Bibliopegy

Editor: Ewww! This was spotted in Michael J. Leclerc's Genealogy News blog on Mocavo, in an article on 16 April entitled: "Is the Book You're Reading Bound by Human Skin?" More: <http://blog.mocavo.com/category/michael-leclercs-genealogy-news>

Anthropodermic Bibliopegy is the practice of binding books with HUMAN SKIN!

"During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, the practice became known among physicians, who used human skin to bind anatomy books. The skin was usually taken from cadavers, but was sometimes taken from criminals. One common form was to take the skin of criminals who were sentenced to death and use it to bind the records of the criminal's trial. This was seen as a punishment that would last even after death." Unfortunately the process destroys DNA so we will never know if they were our ancestors!
